SIZE: Four Chimneys is 200 acres; Bennett is 281 acres. Both areas are hilly with plenty of gently to moderately sloping terrain, but there are also some level fields, plateaus and marsh habitat. There is a parking access for Four Chimneys off Brokum Road; a similar access for Bennett is off Gould Road. U.S.G.S. Quad: Worcester South

VEGETATION: Four Chimneys is dominated by the young hardwoods and brush typical of old fields returning to forest. Bennett is mixed hardwood forest interspersed with a significant amount of open field habitat.

WATER: Both areas contain stretches of marsh-bordered brooks, some areas of which are subject to impoundment by beaver dams.

WILDLIFE: Both areas hold grouse, woodcock, deer, cottontail rabbit, snowshoe hare, coyote, gray squirrel and numerous nongame species. There is also limited pheasant stocking on both areas.

SPECIAL

REGULATIONS: Note that a "hunter orange" hat is required wear for hunters during the pheasant season.
